A durable gas stove with a wide flame – ideal for cooking with larger pots and frying pans for 1 – 3 people on outdoor adventures.

Mimer Stove is a robust gas stove that has been a trusted companion on outdoor adventures since the 1980s. With its wide flame and stable design, Mimer is an excellent choice for frying food or preparing larger meals for up to three people. A reliable choice for shorter hikes and camping trips.

Simple, stable and perfect for frying

Mimer Stove is designed to make outdoor cooking easy. Simply attach it to a gas canister, and it is ready to use. The stove features four pot supports, providing wind protection and extra stability. The wide flame ensures even heat distribution, making it ideal for frying pans and larger pots. Choose Mimer for cooking sausages, pancakes or a hearty stew.

Top-mounted backpacking stove for larger pots and frying pans

Mimer Stove is a top-mounted gas stove in a durable design. It has a 4-point pot support that provides wind protection and stability for larger pots and frying pans (sold separately).
