The cooking spoon and the spatula are probably the most frequently used kitchen utensils for cooking. It is important that both the cooking spoon and the spatula do not scratch on the bottom of the pot or pan because sharp-edged metal spatulas quickly scratch the non-stick coating of many pans and pots. Olive wood is perfect for this. It is soft to the touch, but at the same time also a very hard wood. This has the advantage that odours and chemicals are not absorbed into the spoon, which keeps it sterile and hygienic. It is therefore no wonder that an olive wood spoon is perfect for cooking and is often used for many years.

Robust, high-quality olive wood. To protect and preserve the shine of the wood, regularly rub in olive oil.
