Silicone baking moulds for the RoadBaker camping oven

These silicone baking moulds have been specially designed for use in the RoadBaker camping oven and offer you a practical solution for baking, warming up and portioning a variety of dishes. Whether you are camping, travelling or in a mobile everyday setting – the moulds support easy and flexible preparation on the go.

Made from high-quality platinum silicone, the baking moulds impress with their high material quality and reliable properties in daily use. The material is PFAS-free, LFGB-compliant and FDA-compliant. In addition, it is odourless and flavour-neutral, so that no foreign smells or flavours are absorbed. This ensures that the taste and quality of your food remain unaltered.

The silicone used is particularly durable, dimensionally stable and designed for regular use. With a heat resistance of up to approx. 230 °C, the silicone moulds are suitable for all common baking and warming processes in the RoadBaker. This makes them a functional addition for anyone who values safety, ease of use and reliable results when baking on the move.
